;> Dear Mrs, Clinton,

j I remember with great appreciation the honor of sitting with you. Senator Graham, and ; thrilled to see the shared ideals and shared success of this particular company. I congratulate you on all of your fabulous work, and remember with great fondness your I -dedication to addressing this issue and other very important issues for the greater good.

I
I wanted to make you aware that my good friend Joseph Lonsdale, co-founder of Palantir, has a table at the BENS Eisenhower dinner honoring your work on November \ 30th; Palantir Is growing very quickly with hundreds of employees and many major

Thanks Huma. We're prepared for the teleprompter.

Just want to finalize the expected show-flow for the Secretary's appearance, i.e. length of remarks, use of video, additional speakers, etc.

Happy to discuss with any of the necessary parties to get resolution.

Thanks, , ■

Do you have an opportunity to have a follow-up discussion re: Secretary Clinton's appearance at CGI next week? We would like to finalize all of the details of her participation. We understand that she is likely to deliver remarks at the start of the Girls and Women Plenary at 1:30 PM on Tuesday, 9/21, but we want to settle any related items, i.e. possible need for teleprompter, possible video with remarks, additional participants in commitment announcement on cookstoves, traveling staff credentials, etc.

Subject: Assad emails show he took Iran's advice, joked about reforms-Guardian (Reuters)

LONDON (Reuters) - Bashar al-Assad has taken advice from Iran on countering a revolt against his rule and joked about his promises of reform, according to a trove of e-mails taken from the personal accounts of the Syrian president and his wife, Britain's Guardian newspaper reported on Wednesday.

One of the estimated 3,000 emails which the Guardian said it obtained from an unnamed Syrian opposition member indicated that Assad and his family were urged to quit Syria in January by a daughter of the emir of Qatar, one of his sharpest Arab critics.

The Guardian said the emails, which portrayed an Assad family insulated from the uprising that threatens to pitch Syria into civil war, came from the private accounts of Assad and his wife and was confident they were genuine.

The emails were intercepted from June last year until early February as Assad cracked down on opponents in a revolt that the United Nations estimates has killed 8,000 people.

Some emails showed that Assad's British-born wife Asma was arranging for the purchase of an Armani lamp from London's posh Harrods store, placing orders for jewelled necklaces from Paris and chasing up on a delivery of furniture to Damascus.

But one Asma sent to her husband in late December gives an indication of the strain on the couple as international pressure grew on Syrian authorities to halt the violence.

"If we are strong together, we will overcome this together... I love you.../ the email read.

'N

The emails appear to show that Assad received advice from Iran or its militant, proxies on several occasions.

Ahead of a speech Assad delivered in December his media consultant prepared a long list of themes, reporting that the advice was based on "consultations with a good number of people in addition to the media and political adviser for the Iranian ambassador

"VIOLENT LANGUAGE" ADVISED

"I believe the language must be powerful and violent because the people need to see a powerful president defending the country" and to show appreciation for support from "friendly states", the adviser wrote.

The memo also advised that Assad's government should "leak more information related to our military capability" to convince the public that it could withstand a military challenge.

In July, when his wife e-mailed that she would be finished by 5 p.m., Assad replied: "This is the best reform any country can have that u told me where will you be. We are going to adopt it instead of the rubbish laws of parties, elections, media...

The email purportedly sent by the emir of Qatar's daughter was sent to Assad's British-born wife, Asma, the paper said, and indicated that Qatar's capital Doha could be one place the Syrian leader could seek refuge with his family.

"I only pray that you will convince the president to take this as an opportunity to exit without having to face charges," Mayassa al-Thani, daughter of Qatar Emir Sheikh Hamad bin Khalifa al-Thani, wrote to Asma on Jan. 30.

"Looking at the tide of history and the escalation of recent events - we've seen two results - leaders stepping down and getting political asylum or leaders being brutally attacked. I honestly think that this is a good opportunity to leave and re-start a normal life," the email added.

"I am sure you have many places to turn to, including Doha."

Assad has ruled out leaving power under duress and branded his opponents as "terrorists" and "armed gangs" who he says are tools of a foreign conspiracy to overthrow him.

Some emails indicated that Assad was briefed in detail about the "illegal" presence of Western journalists in the Baba Amr district of Homs, the battered epicentre of the uprising, and urged to "tighten the security grip" on the city in November.

In emails sent to Assad in November and December, advisers told him the government should "be in control of all public spaces every evening".

The Guardian said it had made extensive efforts to authenticate the emails by checking their contents against established facts and contacting 10 individuals whose correspondence appears in the cache.

"These checks suggest the messages are genuine, but it has not been possible to verify every one," the Guardian said.

II. Plenary Session: Investing in Girls and Women (Wednesday, September 23, 9:00 -10:30 am). This year, the Clinton Global Initiative (CGI) is pleased to announce special Annual Meeting programming on the topic of Investing in Girls and Women. Through a series of events and sessions, the CGI Annual Meeting program will examine how solutions that support girls and women around the world can improve entire communities and drive economic progress. (The Plenary Session will take place in front of the entire CGI membership as well as credentialed members of the media.)

The Investing in Girls and Women panel description is as follows: Businesses, governments, and communities in developing and developed countries are working through enormous challenges today. Household economic security is undermined increasingly by food and energy shortages and insufficient access to markets, and this is occurring alongside urbanization, climate change, and significant shifts in governance and economies. At the same time, poverty and financial insecurity is exacerbated by gender inequality. Around the world, women comprise approximately 50% of the population, but girls and women still lack equal access as men to education, healthcare, jobs, and political participation. Correcting these imbalances can enrich communities. For example, each year of schooling has been shown to increase a woman's income by 10-20%, and closing the gender gap in education increases per capita GNP. Opportunities abound to improve families and communities in every stage of a woman's life: from birth to adulthood. Smart businesses recognize the power of investments in girls and women to develop and maintain successful markets for the future, innovative programs already are underway and producing positive results for both communities and businesses. This panel will examine the needs, challenges, and opportunities to strengthen communities and economies through the advancement of girls and women,

The purpose of this event is to create a cross-sectoral dialogue between the private and public sectors in an effort to address priorities and concerns for the coming year. This gathering is not designed to be a social event, but an action focused conversation that will be driven by the specific interests of the participants. Hi chels * to give you a quick download, the airport in Haiti is overwhelmed with planes. We have our military down there to help with airport operations but they do not control the runway which is proving to be quite overwhelming to them but they won't let us help, there are planes stacked up left and right without clearance to land. Priorities are being given to emergency supplies, there are a ton of doctors who are trying to go and priority is given first and foremost to medical supplies, then surgeons, trauma doctors etc. I think trying to get alternative medicine doctors will be almost impossible in the near future. The cash would be more useful now, and we are directing people to your dad's office for private donations. Is that helpful?

I think you've got the right people on the list to ask. Also, I was just about to email the above- McKinsey reached out to CGI and Chai (latter via Anil not sure on former) to see if they could help at all full stop or help the Foundation or whomever most appropriate effective. When I heard I reached out and told them I thought the UN/Clinton Bush Fund (or whatever it's called) would be the best place given multiplier effect and the good relationship McKinsey has with the UN and WHO particularly and told them to reach out to the UN and Paul Farmer. Hope that was ok too.

On another note, people are asking me where to donate and I've been directing them to the state dept website. Any other ideas?

Thank you

Dear Mr. Desai:

Please accept this letter and the attached material as a follow up to a conversation you had with Bob Johnson at the Clinton Foundation dinner last week. We have collaborated with In-Tek, Inc., a DC consulting firm, to conceptualize an economic development venture that we sincerely feel would be desirable for Liberia. We are also confident that this concept is consistent with the goals of the Clinton Global Initiative,

Included here are a Power Point presentation that we prepared for Mr. Johnson, along with my resume/corporate capability statement, which we are certain could be brought to bear on such an endeavor,

I would welcome an opportunity to meet with you to further illustrate this concept.

We have done substantial research here and abroad to support the development of this very workable venture.

Please feel free to reach me at (direct phone number) or simply respond to this email,

Thank you in advance for your time.

Sincerely,

Lothar E. S. (Lou) Budike Jr.

Iron ore production stopped completely, and the United Nations banned timber and diamond exports from Liberia. UN sanctions on Liberian timber were removed in 2006; activity in the timber sector was expected to resume on a large scale during the October 2008–May 2009 dry season.
Diamond sanctions were terminated by the UN Security Council in April 2007, and Liberian diamond exports have resumed.

The costs of reconditioning damaged infrastructure are enormous. The economy is heavily dependent on the infusion of funds made available by international donors, the presence of the UNMIL peacekeeping force, and international non-governmental organizations (NGOs). Foreign assistance ($425 million) still exceeds the national budget.

In 2010, the government enacted several pieces of legislation to modernize commercial transactions and expand commercial activities.

- In fall 2010, Liberia became the first West African country to enact a Freedom of Information Act. The Central Bank of Liberia has maintained low single-digit inflation since 2009.
- The government is trying to privatize the Freeport of Monrovia, which will lower import costs for consumables and capital equipment.
- In early September 2010, Delta Airlines inaugurated direct flights between Atlanta and Monrovia.

Major Issues 2010

- Peace and Security
- Economic Revitalization
- Infrastructure and Services
  - Started to rebuild electricity grid
  - Repaired a number of roads
  - Certain water pipelines in Monrovia have also been rehabilitated, and 100 new water points constructed.
- Governance and the Rule of Law

Current Power Situation

- An international donor group consisting of USAID, the European Commission, Ghana and the World Bank formulated an Emergency Power Program (EPP) to restore power to some parts of Monrovia.
- In 2007, with 2 MW of imported generators, the Liberia Electricity Corporation (LEC) was revived and started commercial operation with 450 customers and a row of street lights for the first time since the war.
- In July 2008, USAID and donors formulated EPP-II to continue assistance to the sector, with the Government of Norway joining the group. EPP-II expanded the generation capacity to 10 MW and extended the transmission and distribution network by installing 84 km of medium and low voltage transmission lines.

Through technical assistance and training provided in the metering, billing and collection services, the commercial operation of LEC was strengthened.

LEC's customer base more than doubled and the number of street lights increased to over 1,000, lighting up a large portion of the city.

As this phase of the project ends, the Government of Norway is continuing to support finance and operational assistance to the LEC until the award of a management contract expected in early 2010.

Current Power Situation (Continued)

- The firm Buchanan Renewable Energies (Investment is $150 Million/Swiss and Canadian) is building a carbon-neutral power plant using woodchips from older rubber trees to generate 35 megawatts of electricity.
- The Liberian Electric Company (LEC) will then sell that power to people in Monrovia for about half what they are paying now. The power plant is a low-cost intermediate solution to Liberia's energy needs.
- Workers break ground on the new power plant this month. It will have the capacity to double the initial 35 megawatts of electricity, once the nation's power grid is improved.

Opportunity

- Stabilize the entire country of Liberia with power to improve the water/sewer, hospitals.
- By generating more power, more reliable and at a lower cost
- Improved workforce through Training and Jobs
- Create Agriculture Farming through idea programs - windmills, etc.

Here is her vital information:

To the best of our knowledge, we believe the delay is due to processing- possibly as a result of her failing to sign some of the immigration documentation and it having to be sent back overnight to the Vermont Service Center, 75 Lower Welden Street, St. Albans, Vermont 05479-0001. That paperwork did not have a specific number on it.

Johnnie thinks it is safe for her to travel to Kenya. He said that they do have a travel warning in place for most of Kenya's major cities and the areas bordering Somalia and the coastal region, but we still have a major Peace Corps program there with volunteers stationed throughout much of the country, over 400 American personnel stationed at the embassy in Nairobi and a large number of American tourists traveling there on a weekly basis. There has been an uptick in terrorist activities largely in non-tourist areas of Nairobi and the country, but most places where Americans are likely to go - major hotels, game parks and tourist attractions - are generally safe. The major threat to American visitors remain random acts of crimes in urban areas and motor vehicle accidents. Certain precautions should be taken and use of reputable and reliable tour services are advisable, if she travels, we can reach out to the embassy to get updated/detailed security/safety information on any areas she plans to visit or any local tour operators she plans to work with. Let me know if you need any additional info

Dear President Clinton, Dear Bill,

I am very concerned by the email which Douglas Band sent to PaulSmyke with copy to me.

You know how much I am an admirer of yours and of what you are doing for the world. I always have expressed full support for the CGI, feeling that our two organizations are complementary.

Let me reassure you that we are always honored and delighted to have you in Davos and we consider you as a strong member of our "family" but It is Important to understand that the logistical situation in Davos Imposes tremendous eonstralnts-from which we also suffer.

The reason why we have not pursued actively your personal participation this year Is because we have been advised to ■ have first the hopefully positive response from the Secretary of State which we still hope will be forthcoming.

If there is closer cooperation between our Foundations, which I very much welcome, the reasons can be found on both . sides and probably have to do with the fact that we both are so engaged in what we are doing and this often leaves little space for mbre pro-active mutual cooperation. To this respect', I regret that I never have been offered an active role in your programmes, that the commitment which the Schwab Foundation for Social Entrepreneurship made to the CGI was never followed up and that the representative of the World Economic Forum, the Director in charge for all of our constituents, was not accepted as a guest at the CGI last September.

The World Economic Forum was built over the last 40 years by never compromising its Independence and intellectual integrity in pursuing Its mission. We both are committed to improving the state of the world and I feel we should handle this situation In a positive way, looking at our partnership also beyond Davos 2010. Therefore, I suggest that we have a personal phone conversation over the next days. My assistant Astrtd SchBnfeld (+4122 8691348} is at the disposal of your staff to set a time convenient to you.

With warmest regards,
Klaus

You may recall, in January 2008, Dallas Police Department Officer Victor Iozada was killed on his motorcycle while escorting Senator Hillary Clinton's motorcade to a campaign rally site in Dallas. The local Dallas TV news stations have reported the Iozada family is filing a lawsuit against Hillary Clinton, the Dallas Police Department and the motorcycle manufacturer. Doug-
You got a beautiful day for a Sarasota wedding! It reminded me that I need to clarify something. My original request of you was for help with a tourist visa. No luck there. So what I am asking for now is your help in speeding up the issuance of the immigration visa (green card). We expect it to issue in do course this summer, but that will not be in time for our wedding,f [did convey that you can't help with a tourist visa but I thought a call to the right person might get expeditious processing of his immigration visa done. The attached info relates to his immigration application, not the tourist visa. You are my only hope in getting him here in time for an April wedding. Thanks for anything you can do.

Subject: Hello and a query from Todd Purdum

Hi, Doug,

. I hope this finds you well, especially since - unless I miss my guess - I saw your torso in the TV frame on the tarmac in Haiti on Monday. If anyone can make a positive difference in that awful situation, I am sure it is President Clinton and your team.

I am writing because there is strong interest at Vanity Fair in writing about President Clinton's efforts in Haiti, and his partnerships with Presidents Bush 41 and 43, as a way of examining the small and singular club that is the postpresidency. I don't see any way that such an article could be written without the support, cooperation and participation of all parties, and I am sure that, in the case of President Clinton, you are the only person who could make such a threshold decision.

I realize full well how odd it may strike you that I am writing with such a request, after the unexpected unpleasantness of last year, about which I confess I still feel troubled. But I also assume you would be the first to understand that any such piece about the ex-presidents' efforts would have to be, by its very nature, positive and upbeat. Perhaps there could even be some counter-intuitive benefit to having it be told by an unexpected author.

I'd be happy to explore this with you at greater length, at any time you like. Meantime, I appreciate your consideration of the idea.

All best,
